

The ace broadcaster Kwesi Kyei Dakwa (KKD) who is in Police custody for allegedly raping a 19-year-old will stay behind bars for one more week. The hearing for his bail application seeking his release today has been adjourned to January 13, 2015.

The presiding judge, Justice Asuo Mensah adjourned the case because the prosecutor argued he received the bail application from KKD's lawyers on Tuesday evening.

Akosua Mormor G Everything takes forever in Ghana. Are they serious? What at all do they do? These are people's lives at stake and they don't seem to respect individual rights. Really disheartening. People don't cross the line there. No transparency or due process there.

Akosua Mormor G What cases Ibrahim? We're talking about individual right to a fair process. Everyone, regardless of alleged crim has the right to fast and due process. If it takes this long to hear simple case then they need to review the process or work longer hours coz why they're there. Employed and paid coz of accused people like kkd. It's about time we caught up with modernism.
